

SYSTEM FOR PROTECTING
THE LOADING SPACE OF VEHICLES

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for protecting the loading space of vehicles, in particular passenger cars, with sensors for sensing loaded material in the loading space, detectors for sensing the state of protective devices in the loading space and being configured for signal generation indicative of the state of the loaded material and as a function of the sensing of loaded material and the sensing of the state of the protective devices.